Professional Quality Equine Supplements

Grand Meadows is proud to have been closely associated with the NASC since its inception. Grand Meadows is a founding member of the NASC, serves on the Board of Directors and was one of the first companies to earn the coveted NASC Seal and awarded their highest compliance rating.

The NASC has dramatically changed the landscape for the sale and distribution of supplements for non-human food chain animals in the last three years. By working closely with the regulatory authorities the NASC has developed workable solutions to the challenges of selling supplements nationally.

The NASC has also introduced the first ever online adverse event reporting system for supplements. This is building a growing statistical database showing that the vast majority of the ingredients used in NHFC supplements are safe. This system also provides NASC with an effective way of monitoring any ingredients that show a higher incidence of interactions or toxicity to one or more species.

The crowning achievement of the NASC so far is undoubtedly the introduction of the NASC Seal. For the first time, consumers have a level of quality assurance that has never been available before. The Seal denotes that a manufacturer has been subjected to and has passed an independent audit of their manufacturing facilities.

The NASC continues to look for ways to improve the quality and accountability of supplements to make sure that consumers have access to legitimate products that perform as their label describes.
